In 1936, the construction crew working here thought it would be cool to carve stones into a diamond, spade, club, and a heart. Then place them into the exterior of the building for the world to see. With the blessing of the superintendent, they did so. To this day, we cherish the location of this artwork, and remember our great forefathers of this community, for their love and hard work.

Ask one of us, we'll tell you where it is.
